HELP SHAPE THE FUTURE

Issues around U.S. government policy help guide the profession and have impact on international standards and best practices. Regardless of your location, you can have a voice in Washington and help to influence policy in national safety standards development. ASSE conducts programs and activities to represent and protect members' interests at the state and federal levels. We also support critical SH&E legislation, provide expert testimony to Congress and monitor government activities to ensure that SH&E legislation is based on sound science.

LEADERSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Contribute to shaping the future of the safety field by participating in task forces and committees, and working with other safety professionals on issues facing the industry today.

About the Society

Formed in 1911, ASSE is the largest and oldest professional safety organization. ASSE has over 32,000 occupational safety health and environmental members who manage, supervise, research and consult on safety, health, transportation and environmental issues in all industries, government, labor and education. ASSE is a global organization that works to advance the technical, scientific, managerial and ethical knowledge and skills of occupational safety, health and environmental professionals, and is committed to protecting people, property, and the environment.

ASSE provides such services as education, public affairs, government affairs, and involvement in national and international safety standards development, technical publications, and timely communications on safety advancements worldwide. For more information, visit ASSE's website at www.asse.org.
